As we approach severe weather season, it is imperative that we remain cognizant of the heightened risk for hazards such as tornadoes, flooding, and high winds. These hazards threaten lives, damage infrastructure, and disrupt communities. With severe weather season and FIFA WC 2026 rapidly approaching, the risks are amplified with the arrival of an estimated additional 650,000 people, making planning even more critical.

The featured presentation will be by Jonathan Kurtz, Warning Coordination Meteorologist with the National Weather Service, KCMO. In addition to discussion about severe weather and its impact on disaster response and recovery, Mr. Kurtz will be focusing on specific tools and strategies for planners, Emergency Managers, and more that will increase safety during FIFA WC 2026.

After the presentation, there will be committee reports, a review of the COAD's Avengers Assemble TTX - VIRTUAL EOC that took place on April 30th, and some general announcements.
